

Anthem of a Saint

A group of young women in baseball uniforms are gathered on a field, celebrating. They are wearing white pinstriped jerseys and white pants. Many have their arms raised in the air, some with hands clasped together. The background is a blurred field with trees.

O say, can you see,
that the time is now near,
that the players
will come to play
baseball right now here?

Let us go on the field,
let the bases shine bright,
put your glove on your hand
and be ready for the fight.

Hear the umpires call:

Batter up! and Play ball!

Swing your bat like Babe Ruth,
let it fly over the wall.

O Lord, hear our prayer:

We ask, bless our game,

Let us honour every foe,

for we play to your fame.
